Presents a two semester
Faculty Colloquium

“Food for Thought”
Faculty Colloquium

The Lewis University History Center and the Arts and Ideas Program support this two semester presentation to engage us all in a multi-disciplinary conversation on a vital topic: FOOD.

We have a personal connection to food, a cultural connection to food, a global connection to food and, fundamentally, a biological connection to food.

Food is related to growth, to health, to illness, but it is also the source of community, the heart of the family, and joy. Faculty from Lewis University will take the lead in our year long exploration of food, foodies, our health, our meals, and our culture.
