LEWIS UNIVERSITY

The College of Business (COB) is committed to excellence and the academic growth and achievement of our students. We believe in accountability, performance disclosure and continuous improvement.

Three college student learning outcomes (CSLOs) are assessed regularly to measure student learning and gauge the effectiveness of teaching.¹

CSLO #1. COB Business students will demonstrate an ability to write intelligently about business.

CSLO #2. COB Business students will be able to present at a professional level about business.

CSLO #3. COB Business students will demonstrate acquisition of up-to-date business content knowledge expected of a graduate with the BS or BA degree.

CSLO #1 is assessed once every two years in the Fall semester. Student artifacts are collected from BSAD30000 Business Communication, ORGL42000 Leadership for Service, and SPMT41000 Research in Sport Management. Assessors assigned by the COB Assessment Committee evaluate student artifacts based on the writing assessment rubric created by the COB Assessment Committee. Assessment results of writing skills are first reviewed by the COB Assessment Committee and then shared with all COB faculty.

¹ Before Fall 2022, CSLO #1 and CSLO #2 were assessed each year. In Fall 2022, the COB Assessment Committee made the decision to change the assessment cycle from once every year to once every two years.

CSLO #2 is assessed once every two years in the Spring semester. Assessors assigned by the COB Assessment Committee attend BSAD30000 Business Communication in the Digital Age and evaluate student presentations based on the oral presentation assessment rubric created by the COB Assessment Committee. Student presentations in ORGL45000 Capstone: The Future of Leadership and SPMT41000 Research in Sport Management are evaluated based on the same rubric. Assessment results of oral presentation skills are shared with all COB faculty after the reviews are completed by the COB Assessment Committee.
