

Pathways in Peace and Justice Studies

Vision

Rooted in Catholic social teaching and shaped by Lasallian praxis, the Peace and Justice Studies program is interdisciplinary. It critically engages students in addressing contemporary social justice problems and building “just peace.” Community engaged, interfaith work toward just peace is actively self-reflective, anti-racist, and evolving. Disciplinary partners are: Communications; Education; English Studies; Environmental Science; History; Justice, Law and Public Safety Studies; Philosophy; Political Science; Psychology; Social Work; Sociology; Theatre; and Theology.
