Immunization Compliance Resources

I do not have records of all of my shots. What are my options?

- Check with your primary or secondary school to see if they have a record of your shots. It is common practice in the United States for high schools to require and to keep copies of immunization records. High schools must keep these records for decades.

- Catch up on your vaccinations prior to starting at Lewis University. Revaccination is one method to fulfill the immunization requirements. Vaccinations are available at any major pharmacy, in addition to most primary care offices, immediate care facilities or public health departments.

- Talk to your health care provider about a blood test (serology testing) for IgG antibodies against measles, mumps, and rubella. If all of your titers are POSITIVE, then you will not require any record of vaccination against these diseases. Please note, the laboratory report must include the reference ranges for testing performed.

- Veterans: Your military vaccination records may be accessible through one of the following sites:
  - www.tricareonline.com
  - https://vetrecs.archives.gov/VeteranRequest/home.html
  - https://www.archives.gov/veterans/military-service-records

- Vaccinations are available in the Campus Health Center for currently enrolled students. We offer the MMR, Td or Tdap, and Meningococcal Conjugate (MCV4) vaccines for a charge that is payable in cash or can be applied to your student account. We are unable to bill to insurance. Please call the Center for further information.

- We also offer blood collection services for the serology testing for measles, mumps and rubella. The testing is done off-site (Quest Diagnostics) at a discounted rate. Again, the charges go onto the student account and are available to currently enrolled students only.

- You should get revaccinated if you do not have sufficient records.
